explanation of cover--

The line at top coming from East, or right, goes to West--bringing in people to West Virginia

The mountains super-imposed on the outline of the State shows the roughness, or hardships, of their travel. As they usually would move on at the "crack of dawn," the sun is shining on the east side of the mountains and shadows are falling on the west side.

Arrows pointing to specific spots have arrowheads for points to represent the problems early settlers faced.

The road sign is self-explanatory.

Various types of printing represent different families, names, etc.

The line extending off the page to the left,
or West, represents those who migrated farther west.

24 October 1984

Hi Everyone!

Well, the gathering is over for another year. What a super, fantastic weekend it turned out to be. Sorry that those of you who missed were unable to attend. The weather was great, the people were better, and I can hardly wait until next year!!!! You'll be reading all about it in this issue and some of those to follow.

This was one of the easiest Journals that we've done, yet it was the hardest. It was easy because we had so much to choose from; it was hard because we didn't want to leave anything out.

This issue is missing the Lewis County Death Records; we felt it was more important to give you the stories this time. And, because there was so much, we decided to serialize several articles so that we could cover a wider range of families.

This is a sample of the stationary that was designed by Cris Waganer. You'll read more about it in this issue.

Plans are now being formulated for next year's reunion and will start to really get in gear with an Executive Meeting on November 3 in Parkersburg. If you have any suggestions or ideas for it, please let Barbara and Bob know about them.

We have a new Secretary-Treasurer this year - Jim Strong of Massillon, Ohio. Although it made us unhappy to see Betty leave the position she has so ably filled the past two years, we know that Jim will do a good job.

All of the officers are looking forward to a bigger and better year than ever for HCPD. We've grown to almost 250 members in 2 short years. Who'd ever have "thunk" it!!! Maybe we'll be 300 strong next year.

Hope you enjoy Volume III and find as many things to help you as you have in the past.

Sincerely,

P.S. Have a Happy Thanksgiving and a Merry Christmas!
See ya' next year.

SURNAME INDEX
MEMBERSHIP

Attached to the inside back cover you will find a copy of our new brochure. Please use it to renew your membership. Dues remain the same and are payable and dues. Members who have not paid their dues will not receive their January issue. On your address label you will find a red mark if you have not paid your 1985 dues, so please check today.

On the brochure you will find a place to list your surnames. Even if you have paid your dues for 1985, please complete this part of the brochure and return it to James Strong. Be sure to fill in your name and address and mark it "Surname" someplace on the form.

We are attempting to compile a surname index for publication sometime in the summer. Joyce Chambers has volunteered to help Jim with this effort.

INDEX for
HCJ VOL. I & VOL. II

The Journals, both Volume I and Volume II, have been indexed.

Volume I was compiled by Lolita Thayer Guthrie and Ann Newman, collated by Charles Gilchrist and typed by Joy. Volume II was compiled, collated and typed by Lolita Guthrie. Then, as if Lolita hadn't already done enough, she had them printed, collated all 500 issues, and assembled them with fasteners. THANKS A WHOLE HEAP, Lolita!

Those who attended the gathering received their index at that time.

Those who paid dues for 1983 and 1984 will be receiving theirs in the mail from Betty.

Those of you who ordered back issues are also entitled to indices for them. Joy didn't think enough in advance to keep a separate list of those who purchased back issues and filed those letters in folders by surname - along with about 500 other folders. So. . . . those of you who ordered back issues, please drop Joy a postcard and she'll put them in the mail to you.

THIRD ANNUAL HACKER'S CREEK PIONEER DESCENDANTS GATHERING

The Third Annual Hacker's Creek Pioneer Descendants Gathering held September 28, 29, and 30, 1984, at Jackson's Mill in Lewis County, W. Va., was bigger and better than ever. 115 persons registered and attended at least some portion of the event. A list of those persons will be found at the end of this report. 17 new members were added to the roster. 60 persons went on the tour of the historic spots of Hacker's Creek. About 90 attended the Saturday night program. The wooden pews of old Harmony were full with worshipers on Sunday morning; and, due to inclement weather, many found it necessary to be on their way to their scattered homes before the business meeting on Sunday.

Several persons arrived at Jackson's Mill on Thursday night and a continental breakfast was served to them on Friday morning. These folks had already had an interesting beginning to their weekend. Betty, our faithful Secretary-Treasurer, had come to the Mill at 7 am to distribute breakfast tickets. When she checked with the office, she learned that breakfast would be served at 8 am instead of the usual 7:30. She spent the next half-hour running around the grounds to the various rooms notifying the attendees that breakfast would be late.

When Bob, Joy and Joyce Chambers arrived at 9 am, they found these folks shivering in the cold West Virginia Building while the maintenance man turned on the heat. The weather had taken a turn to COLD and DAMP and heat was definitely called for.

The trio had entered the building in extremely good cheer. The previous night they had worked until 1 am trying to make a definite connection between Joyce's Hacker family and the Hacker's Creek Hackers. They were successful and the little Yankee girl who had been adopted when she was 2 days old at last had a family all her own. Space won't be taken here to tell her story because she plans to write it herself one of these days; suffice it to say, she's the first living descendant of William Hacker and Adah/Eder West that has been found by HCPD Hacker and West researchers to date. In honor of proving Joyce a "true" Hacker/West, the three had taken an early morning tour of Hacker's Creek before coming to the Mill.

While they were touring, Bob and Joy decided it was a good time to look for Jacob Cozad's pear tree (Border Settlers of Northwestern Virginia, p. 315). They began looking at Berlin, inspecting each tree as they came down the creek. As they approached what is now the Bailey home (the next home up the creek from Morrison Cemetery), they saw what they believed to be an old pear tree. They thought they had found ol' Jake's tree and snipped a twig and some leaves and brought it to the mill with them. The consensus among those who were there on Friday morning was that it was indeed a pear tree. The following day, on 90 year old Ruhl Lawson, a direct descendant of Jacob and Mercy (Woodward) Cozad, confirmed that they had been correct. It was a pear tree, the present-day Bailey farm is the old Jacob Cozad home and the tree they found was probably a shoot of the original pear tree. Ruhl recalled that the tree had been at least 3 feet in diameter. He also said that the little house in back had originally been the cabin.

By lunch time on Friday several more persons had arrived and enjoyed a luncheon in the Mt. Vernon dining hall. The menu was grilled cheese sandwiches, ham salad, tossed salad, vegetable soup, who remembers what dessert was?, milk and coffee.

More people arrived after lunch. Everyone was busy claiming a spot for their books and talking and visiting and comparing notes. Among them were Janet Roby Cosgrove, June Burke Morris, James and Rosamond Wolfe, Raymond Wolfe, Jr., Clive West, Maurice Allman, Arthur and Lucille (Sinclair) Poss, Ed and Clara Jett Lawson, Barbara Swisher McCarty, Walter and Susie (Davis) Nicholson, Jim and Mary Ann (Hardman) Egan, Benny Mitchell, and Cliff and Mary Frasheur. A good example of just how small our world is was the attendance of the last mentioned couple. Cliff and Mary are friends of the Nicholsons in Akron and have roots in Hacker's Creek. In addition, Mary belongs to the Daughters of the Confederacy with Betty Graybill. Perhaps none of them would have realized all these connections if it weren't for HCPD.

Later in the afternoon Bob and Joy took two cars full of people on a pre-tour of Hacker's Creek. The purpose of the pre-tour was to point out the sites so that these people could assist as guides for the tour. Meanwhile, everyone at the Mill continued to share information with others.

By suppertime 60 persons had registered for the weekend. The menu for the evening meal featured meatloaf and buttered potatoes.

Immediately after supper, in the chilly dusk, about 20 persons met with Dan Tabler, Jackson's Mill Camp Director, in front of the dining hall to tour the Mill. Everyone else returned to the West Virginia Building for more swapping and conversation. Dan told us that the mill was the boyhood home of "Stonewall" Jackson, Confederate hero of the First Battle of Bull Run, and was the first 4-H camp to be built in the world. It opened in 1924. He pointed out the sidewalks throughout the camp. Only those in front of the dining hall have the correct design of a 4 leaf clover. There should have been four blocks in each set shaped like this to form a clover. However, a mistake was made in the plans and most sections that should have had a clover have three leaves and one square block.

Dan pointed out the various stone cabins that were constructed under the sponsorship of the various counties in the state. He took the group up by the West Virginia Building and explained about the new pool and the livestock barns. From there he guided the group down behind the dining hall and explained various buildings. By now it was starting to get colder and the tour was anxious to get to the old mill site and the museum. He decided to take them there with a stop at the All Faiths Chapel first. The chapel was constructed in 1959 under the sponsorship of the Methodist Men of West Virginia. One couple on the tour, Jim and Vera DeBrular, had been married in the chapel six years previously.

As they proceeded to the mill, Dan explained that the assembly hall was the first building to be built and still is in great shape - thanks to an excellent maintenance staff. He explained that the Lewis County cabin, now the furthest from the dining hall, had been built in it's location near the mill because the Lewis Countians wanted to be nearest the dining hall which was, in the 1920's, located between the Lewis Cabin and the mill.

At last the tour reached the mill. Dan told us that a building program will be starting this next year with a pioneer village to be built around the mill. There will be a saw mill, a working grinding mill, and several other buildings. The road will be closed at the gate by the mill and the gate will be moved up on the hill above the McWhorter cabin. The Formal garden will be relocated to either side of the dining hall.

The mill is now a museum. Both floors are chockful of antiques - the saw mill which will be moved in the reconstruction, glassware that used to be in the West Virginia Building, spinning wheels, a bedstead, old lanterns, and much much more. There was even a picture of the Berlin school taken in 1898. Unfortunately, no names were on this picture and no one on the tour could identify anyone. Perhaps one of our members might have had someone in the school in that year and would be able to identify the persons. Anyone out there who would be willing to try?

By 8:30 most of the tour returned to the West Virginia Building and most of the folks headed to their homes or their cottages on the grounds. Joyce Chambers stayed around for awhile and straightened up the chairs and emptied ashtrays. Bob, Joy, Benny Mitchell and Dennis Rodgers stayed until 11:30 hashing over the Schoolcrafts, the Radcliffs/Ratcliffs, the Regers, the Hughes, the Wests and several other families. Much was learned by all four in the discussion that evening.

Saturday's activities began with breakfast of cream of rice, scrambled eggs, sausage links, toast, coffee and milk. All of the meals were served family style with plenty for everyone to eat.

The opening ceremonies were scheduled for 9 am in the West Virginia Building; but did not get under way until 9:45. Meanwhile, Betty was busy registering people and signing up new members. Everyone gathered in little groups and discussed family ties. Several had claimed table space and set up displays.

Doris Poinsett was there with her Upshur County maps; Hartzel Strader had several notebooks and some new cemetery readings; Bill Marsh brought a copy of each of the five books of 1880 census that he has published to date; Benny Mitchell claimed a small table to display his Mitchell material; Jan Cosgrove shared information on Upshur County families; Joy had the HCPD family books and the library; elsewhere there were those working on Straleys, Lawsons, Cutrights, etc., etc., etc.

Some of the new faces that appeared during the morning gathering were Ron Lawson, Millie Simerl, LeEarl Bryant, Christine White, Janis Cutright, Janet Ocheltree, Linda Kaufman, and Raydene Teichera.

One of the more interesting stories of the morning was that of Burl Beane and his daughter Debbie. They had come to West Virginia during a two month genealogical tour to attend two family reunions. One of the primary families that they are researching is the Hughes. Upon arriving in West Virginia, they learned about the HCPD Gathering and stayed around to participate. The Beanes, by the way, live the furthest of all the attendees from their roots - they live in Washington state.

Bob Smith called the meeting to order and Larry Smith offered a prayer. Bob welcomed everyone and introduced the officers who were present and explained the program plans for the weekend. He asked each person to briefly introduce themselves and tell something about their research. This went fairly fast and most persons limited their comments to about 30 seconds. Bob appointed the nominating committee in preparation for election of officers the next day. The committee was: Jim DeBrular (Chairman), Joyce Chambers, Doris Poinsett, Clara Jett Lawson and

Because there had been plenty of conversation before the meeting and many appeared to like the informality of working together, it was decided that there would be no formal group sessions and that folks would just work in groups as they saw fit. The meeting adjourned.

Just before the meeting adjourned there were two important arrivals - Charles Gilchrist with the copy machine and Lolita Guthrie with the indices for the Journals. Everyone had been most anxious for the copy machine and Charlie quickly became the most popular man in the building as he assisted with this work. 914 copies were made in two days.

Lolita and Betty passed out the index for Volume I and Volume II to all who were present. The rest of the index will be mailed to those who were not present. If you have been a member for both years - or if you purchased either volume as a whole - and have not received your index by the time you receive this issue, please write to Joy or to Jim Strong.

Because we had a key to the building this year, it was locked during those times when no one was there to watch it. Most meal times, there were those who chose not to eat and "baby-sat" the building and everyone's belongings.

Saturday lunch was served, as usual, family style. The menu was: _____
This is a case of this writer remembering who everyone on Hacker's Creek is related to but not remembering what she had for dinner on Saturday. (Ha! Ha!) Some of the spouses were more interested in the West Virginia University-Pitt football game than in genealogy and a portable radio appeared on the dining room table. A group quickly formed around it. (The Mountaineers won!)

As soon as lunch was over, everyone hurried back to the W. Va. Building to begin the tour. The most frequently heard comment during the brief meeting prior to the tour was that everyone was thankful that it was a comfortably cool day with clear blue skies and sunshine unlike the previous day which had been cold and rainy.

To avoid traffic congestion along the tour route and to make it easier for everyone to hear and see, the tour was split in three groups. Bob Smith and Charles and Joy Gilchrist each led a group and they were assisted by: Ed and Clara Jett Lawson, Ruhl Lawson, Maurice Allman, Linda Chapman Turner, and Barbara Swisher McCarty. Each group began the tour in a different location. One started at the Henry McWhorter Cabin, went up to Minter Bailey's, then to the West/Straley location, up Hacker's Creek through the sights to Buckhannon Run, back down and up Jesse's Run; another started at the Bailey farm, went up Jesse's Run, down to Harmony and up Hacker's Creek as far as the Jake Cozad farm, back to the West/Straley location, and then back to the Mill (this group spent lots of time on Jesse's Run); the third group started at Harmony, went up Hacker's Creek to Buckhannon Run, back to Jesse's Run, to the West/Straley location, out to Bailey's and to the Pioneer Cemetery. There were 40 locations on the tour and only the last mentioned group completed all of them.

The tour appears to have been the most popular event of the weekend. Comments about it were still being made the next evening as we adjourned. We had considered publishing the written guide as part of the Journal but have decided to withhold it for the present time with other plans in mind.

Most of the groups returned just in time for the delicious chicken dinner with mashed potatoes, gravy, broccoli, and dessert. Betty was heard to comment that no one should have told Terry that the meal was "all you could eat." Several others joined him.

Bob called the evening program to order just a couple of minutes after 7 o'clock. After welcoming everyone, he introduced the evening's speaker, Bill Adler, the writer of the "Yesteryear" column for the Weston Democrat. Bill began his speech by saying that we knew who, where, what and when of Hacker's Creek and that his purpose was to show "why" our people came. Bill did such a fine job of telling "why" that we hope to print his speech in the next issue of the Journal. Bill is presently in Italy and could not be reached for his copy.

The lighter side of the entertainment for the evening was provided in the next segments of the program. Dan Tabler, accompanying himself on an electronic autoharp, sang some old songs that would have been popular with our earliest ancestors on Hacker's Creek. He progressed to an old gospel medley and invited the audience to join in. There was "Amazing Grace", "In the Garden", and several others in the medley. The voices of all the HCPDers raised in song as the group sang these old, old hymns put tears in the eyes of more than one person in the gathering. Dan lightened the mood with "She'll be Comin' Round the Mountain" and other ditties. He asked the grandmothers in the audience to raise their hands; about 20 persons did. He asked those who remembered sleepin' in grandma's front room in the big feather bed to raise their hands; about 7 persons did. He dedicated John Denver's "Grandma's Feather Bed" to all who had raised their hands in the two groups. Dan's songs were many and varied - much of it of the toe-tappin' hand-clappin' variety. The Editor failed to record the whole program so a complete schedule of the music is not available. Words cannot express the joy and delight he brought to the audience; suffice it to say, his music was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Hacker Wackers, our own impromptu musical group, was scheduled to close the program. However, due to previous engagement, some of the group was not present. Larry Smith did bring his banjo and he teamed up with Dan and offered some more fine music.

Thank you, Bill Adler, Dan Tabler and Larry Smith for a most enjoyable Saturday evening program!

After the program, the hall cleared fairly fast. Many returned to their homes; some, from out-of-town, spent the night with family and friends in the area; others stayed at the Rogers Motel in Weston. Three couples stayed in the campground at the Mill; others stayed in cottages. One group, who shall remain nameless, played "Teenagers at Camp"; and, one couple had a problem getting to their cabin because the maintenance department had forgotten to turn on the street lights in their area. Two fellows spent part of the evening running around the camp looking for the maintenance man with a key because the key to lock the building had been given to someone who would be there early the next day to open the building. Sorry 'bout that, Bob and Chuck!

On Sunday morning those who had signed up for breakfast gathered at the dining hall with some confusion. Was breakfast at 7:30 or 8? The kitchen staff said that Sunday breakfast was at 8; but, because it was very chilly and had started to rain, they opened the doors and admitted everyone. The staff then went one step further - they started serving breakfast at 7:45. Everyone appreciated their thoughtfulness.

Breakfast over, everyone hurried through the raindrops to the meeting hall. More conversation and more sharing! Joyce Chambers and John Sheldon Hacker compared notes and exchanged information. Dennis Rodgers decided that he'd better head home to Mt. Zion, Illinois. Jim and Evelyn Strong and Jim and Mary Alice Egin were still exchanging Hardman notes. Bill Marsh was answering questions about his 1880 census work. All were talking about how lucky we were that it had not rained on Saturday and ruined the tour.

At 9:30 Bob Smith announced that the church bell was ringing - meaning that it was time to leave for Harmony Church. All who planned to attend joined in car pools for the drive to the church.

The worshippers were greeted at the church by Ralph Barnette, one of the trustees of the church. As they entered the church, their hearts were full of thankfulness for having the opportunity to attend the church begun by their forefathers and kept going by a handful of faithful there in the place of their ancestors. Some were thinking how different this church was from the big city church that they usually attended. There were the hard wooden benches that have not softened with age; there were the white plank walls; there was the old painting (badly in need of restoration) of the original Harmony Church which had stood upon the hill above this one. Others were reminiscing of childhood days with many happy Sunday mornings spent in churches similar to this one throughout West Virginia and perhaps in other states across the land; some were recalling earlier days spent in this same church. One was remembering that this was the place that her father and mother had met and courted. Several enjoyed the realization that their grandfathers, several times removed, had been the ministers who had begun this church.

As all these thoughts raced through their minds, the eyes of the worshippers took in the Roll of Honor upon the wall with its list of names of those who had served their country from this church, the children's table with its books about Jesus, the pleasant fact of the young man as he passed out the hymnals, the craggy face of the minister, the look of joy upon the face of the pianist. . . All these things and more assailed the minds and eyes of the worshippers as Bob Smith thanked the congregation of Harmony for allowing HCPD to use this church as their official place of worship on this Sunday morning and for asking us to participate in their service. He turned the service over to Rev. Sheldon Workman.

Rev. Workman, himself a Hacker's Creek descendant, extended a welcome to everyone and said that the congregation felt honored by the presence of members of Hacker's Creek Pioneer Descendants. He asked the pianist, Joyce Chambers, for the first hymn.

Joyce had volunteered her musical talents to the organization when she made reservations for the gathering. When Bob was looking for someone to play for the Sunday service, he had asked her. Joyce's heart was full to overflowing as she announced the first hymn, "Amazing Grace".

The congregation was a little leary of singing out on the first stanza of the song. Bob stopped the music at the end of the verse and told the story of one of the early residents of the area who had not been saved and who was so upset with the singing and shouting coming from the church that he stamped his foot in his anger and broke his hip; as a result, the man was crippled for the rest of his life. The man never married and is buried in the Harmony Cemetery. Bob urged the worshippers to sing in the same manner as their ancestors. For the rest of the verses, and for the rest of the songs in the service, the congregation "did their ancestors proud". The windows nearly rattled as they raised their voices in song.

Responsive Reading was done in the Methodist manner. It was followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Rev. Workman read the parable of the prodigal son, Luke 15: 15-22. He led the congregation in prayer and then called for the offering.

Joyce announced the next song, "My Jesus I Love Thee". It would be hard to say which was better in this song - the beautiful music from the piano or the many voices raised in joyful song. Rev. Workman commented that he was enjoying the music so much and that the words the Lord had given him to speak would only take about 10 minutes; he asked Joyce for another song. She chose "Tis So Sweet To Trust in Jesus".

Rev. Workman began his sermon with the definition of a pioneer. He explained that as our ancestors were pioneers on Hacker's Creek building their homes, exploring the area, and establishing places to worship so we today are pioneers in many other ways. He urged the congregation not to forget Christ as they pursued their various tasks. He spoke eloquently and held the attention of the audience. John Mitchel and David Smith would have been proud of this man who followed in their footsteps.

The service ended, quite appropriately, with "Faith of Our Fathers" and the benediction. Strains of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" were played by Joyce as everyone left the church.

Everyone left the church with a feeling of well-being and of having shared something very special.

Thank you, Harmony Church, for allowing us to share that day with you.

After church some of the folks started on their way to their homes; others returned to Jackson's Mill with stops at various places along the way. Everyone else made it back to the Mill in time for Sunday dinner of ham, candied yams and lots of other goodies.

The business meeting was scheduled for 1 pm. The weather had taken a turn for the worse - it was raining very hard with no signs of letting up - and many who had planned to stay for the meeting decided that they had better be on their way to their homes. John Hacker said that he should be on his way to Charleston where he had to catch a plane back to Tyler, Texas; Lena Byers felt that she should head back to Grantsville since it obviously was going to be bad driving; others had similar distances to travel and similar reasons for leaving. About 30 persons stayed for the business meeting.

Bob called the meeting to order.

He asked Joy for a report on the Journal. She thanked everyone for everything that they had submitted in the past year. She mentioned that there were still many cemeteries in Lewis County to be recorded and thanked Hartzel Strader for all the work he has done in that respect. She asked those who submitted articles for the Journal to type them in preparation for printing if at all possible. She showed the new stationery with the drawing of Hacker's Creek across the top that designed by Cris Wagoner and is for sale by the organization. (Instructions for ordering will be found elsewhere in the Journal.) She showed the new brochure which was conceived by Lolita Guthrie and is available for distribution to others who want them. Members were urged to take copies home to share with their libraries and with those with whom they correspond that might not know about WCPD. Joy extended a special thank you to Ardis Lamb for the symbolic artwork on the front of the brochure. Her only interest is as a friend of Lolita's whom she has accompanied to the last two gatherings as a traveling companion. In thanks for her work, Ardis was presented with a copy of Volume I of The Journal. She was glad to receive it; she said that she had developed an affinity for the area and would be especially interested in hearing more about some of the new cemetery discoveries in the area.

Hartzel Strader asked the members to note that the WPA recordings of the cemeteries were not always accurate and to remember this when using them - whether published in the Journal or elsewhere.

Lolita Guthrie passed out "Cousin-Finders" and explained their use. She also passed out perpetual calendars. These were given to the organization by N. Dale Talkington, the gentleman who designed them, along with permission to use them in this issue of the Journal. Copies will be found on page 53 and 55.

Jan Cosgrove thanked the organization for allowing her to serve as Vice President this past year. She hoped that everyone had enjoyed the previous evening's program. She said that she had been given several Hacker's Creek artifacts by a lady and said that they were for the organization. At the present time, she has them stored in her home. She then told a ghost story about an Upshur County cemetery which she hopes to authenticate.

Bob Smith introduced Bruce Melton, a trustee of the Buckhannon Run Church and the old Buckhannon Run School. He offered the old school as a museum or meeting house for the organization in return for some preservation work to the building. The building is structurally sound but needs painting, windows replaced, and shutters to protect the new windows. The pros and cons were discussed and Ed McLawson said that he would be glad to donate the needed windows (glass is his business) and Barbara McCarty said that her husband could get the rest of the supplies at a sizeable discount. It was finally decided that the discussion should be tabled until the Executive Committee meeting which will be held November 3 and until thoughts on the project could be solicited from members around the country through the Journal. So, folks, what are your thoughts? Should we take on this preservation project. The building is not big enough for annual meetings but would serve as a place to store artifacts and to have reunions and other things. Send your thoughts on the subject to Bob Smith.

The By-Laws were discussed article by article and section by section. They were passed as they appeared in the last issue of the Journal, with a few exceptions. The adopted By-Laws are on page 14.

James DeBrular said that he felt that Howard Bonnett had done an admirable job in constructing the By-Laws with the help of the rest of the committee. Jim's statement received a round of applause. Bob instructed the secretary to write a letter to Howard thanking him and the editor to insert it in the Journal. So, THANKS! Howard. (Howard was unable to attend this year because he was attending his 50th reunion of his college class, an opportunity that comes but once in a lifetime.)

Bob called for a report from the Nominating Committee. Jim DeBrular read the slate of officers for 1985 as recommended by the committee. They were: Bob Smith, President; Barbara Swisher McCarty, Vice President; James Strong, Secretary-Treasurer; Joy Gilchrist, Archivist, Historian and Editor of the Journal; Maurice Allman, Representative to the Executive Committee. Jim called for nominations from the floor and it was moved that the slate be closed and accepted as recommended by the committee. The vote was unanimous.

Bob gave a special thank you to Betty Graybill for her services to the organization the past two years. He told the meeting that Betty was returning to school to become an animal behavior specialist and was going to be "just a member" in the organization for awhile. He then asked Betty to report on the 1983 meeting and to give a budget report.

Betty read the minutes, the financial statement for 1984, and the proposed budget for 1985. The minutes were accepted, the financial statement was filed and the proposed budge was adopted. It was pointed out that the budget is a guideline for the officers and necessary to achieve non-profit status with the government. Changes in the future may alter the budget.

Bob announced the 1985 gathering would be September 27, 28 and 29 at Jackson's Mill if the date is agreeable with the Mill.

The meeting was adjourned until next year.

S.A.S.E

Genealogy can be a lot of fun,
Until you hear from someone
Who wants some help from you,
And wants you to pay for it too.

A self-addressed stamped envelope
Is the polite thing to do; you see
It means only one extra stamp for you
But many for the one you're writing to.

People don't mind sharing with you,
But can't see paying for it too.
So when you ask someone to share,
Put in a S.A.S.E., its the only fair thing to do.

LOST AT GATHERING

It seems to be an annual event with our gathering - someone always loses something. This year was no exception. On Friday night June Morris lost her notebook. The notebook is blue in color and has three sections inside like manila folders. One section is marked "Hinzman", one section is marked "Morrison" and the third "Misc." There was also a tablet clipped inside. Please check the books you had at the gathering. If you find it either call Mrs. Donald Morris at Grantsville, W. Va., or mail it to her at Box 267, Grantsville, W. Va. 26147. Since the notebook contained irreplaceable old family pictures, June is most anxious to locate it.

Wesley Mrs. Braybill:

From Mrs. Robert Fowler of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, I have learned of the "Fletcher's Creek Pioneer Reunion Gathering" of Sept. 28-30.

My great great grandfather George Figgitt was born in 1796 on the Kinney's Run, near Lee, West Virginia. He was the son of Francis Figgitt, E. Kinney's wife, York Co., Pa. and his wife Elizabeth Fletcher, E. near the Hardy-Pendleton Co. line on the South Branch of the Potomac. Francis Figgitt had two brothers, one was John Figgitt and his name was Bennett, and his Figgitt who was killed about 1797 by the Indians while driving cattle to the Ohio river. Elizabeth Fletcher was the daughter of Henry Fletcher who lived at the mouth of Stone Coal Creek further up the river valley. Weston is located there now.

In 1807, the Figgitts and John Fletcher Jr. - a nephew of Elizabeth (Fletcher) Figgitt - moved to Harmon Co., Ohio

It will be impossible for me to attend the "Gathering" but enclosed is $12 for 2 years membership with the journal.

Dear Jay:

I've been sewing and journaling over the Hachena Creek journals to see if I can find a clue to my David Wolfe b. 1791 who m. Elizabeth Ireland b. 1796.

Ray Wolf of N.Y. City sent me the data that David Wolf s/o Jacob & Anna Staley Wolf was b. 1791 and married Elizabeth Cibrigh b. 1796. That is incredible that they have the same birth dates. I don't know where he got his dates. In Hachena Creek Journal Vol. I page 344 p. 99 is b. David - no information. In the 1898

Wolfe letter in the third paragraph it says, "David married a Cibrigh, I have written Drury Clarke of the Lewis, Taylor, Harrison, Randolph. Robert did reply and some others.

No one has their marriage dates, I plan a trip to W.Va. this summer, the last wedding and will check for myself. In Tala Wolfe's Cribb's book, she states an Elizabeth Ireland mother of the above Elizabeth Ireland b. 1796 married John Wolfe 1800. My Wolfe has this John as the s/o Jacob & Anna Staley Wolfe.

Clearly there is some way all of these Wolfes connect. They settled not too far from each other.

In deed Book 1 P. 323 Harrison County

"FOUND" TOMBSTONES
HARMONY and MORRISON

On the weekend of September 2 & 3, 1984, Robert B. Smith and Charles and Joy Gilchrist toured several locations on Hacker's Creek in preparation for the tour for the annual gathering. While they were there, they decided to do some probing in Morrison Cemetery for lost tombstones and to check out a story told to Bob by a Mortimer Stalnaker descendant that there were pieces of tombstones in the corners of the Old Harmony Cemetery. Both searches proved fruitful.

At Harmony the following tombstones were found in the back upper right hand side:

"In Memory of William Cookman, Born Oct 19th 1758, Deceas'd Dec 8th 1847"
"Infant of Samuel P. and Sarahann Cotterill Born Aug.st 17th 1811"
"E.A." - a footstone
"E.A.H." - a footstone.

An area resident told the searchers that they understood that at one time some young boys were hired to mow the cemetery. The boys removed all the loose tombstones to make the task easier. Consequently, many of the markers are not on the proper graves.

Because they lacked the proper tools, a thorough search of the piles of trash and stone in the upper right corner and lower right corner was not made. It is hoped that they, or some other interested parties, can undertake this task in the near future.

Probing at Morrison Cemetery revealed the following:

"Rev. Alexander Morrison, Died Aug. 17 1873, Aged 80 years, 8 months, 18 days"
"John B. Morrison, Died Nov 9 1889, Aged 70 years, 10 months, 1 day"

McVane Cemetery

This cemetery is located up Hackers Creek $10\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Jane Lew and about one mile beyond the Lewis-Upshur County line, just before arriving to Rooting Creek. It is on the hill north side of Hackers Creek road, up a very steep winding quarter mile driveway that would be difficult for most vehicles to travel. The cemetery has good fencing and the grass appears to have regular mowing. Inscriptions copied 28 Aug 1983 by Hartzel G. STRADER.

To Joy Gilchrist

From Doris P. Poinsett

In your note of Aug. 20th, you indicated you will be publishing a McVaney Cem. reading done by Hartzel Strader. In regard to this, I feel I should brief you on two stones which were moved to that cemetery in 1980. In a letter dated 18 July 1983, I explained this to Hartzel, but just in case he forgot to pass this on, I will repeat it here. It gives me an opportunity to publish corrections to some erroneous data which I know about first hand.

In 1974 my father, Crestes Post, and my brother, Bob, made a trip to the grave site of Abraham & Christena (--?--) Post at Post's Mill, Upshur Co., WV. The owner suggested that it might be wise to remove the tombstones as they were in the open pasture and being broken up. They were removed at this time. Crestes died in 1977. In 1980, about 200 years after the birth of Abraham, my brother Crestes, Jr., Bob, and I decided to have them cleaned and set in a marker at McVaney Cem. where we have an interest in a lot. They are between Abram J. Post and Enoch Post, a grandson and great-grandson. The remains of Abraham & Christena were not disturbed.

Now for confessions - I did not get into genealogy seriously until Nov. 1981. Until then I was employed full time. The 1850 census of Lewis Co., VA as published by Tetrick, contained an error for the family of Abraham Post which, unfortunately, got transferred to the 1980 marker. When I checked the original on microfilm at the National Archives here in Washington, the name of what seems to be the wife of Abraham Post is Tenay, not Feany. Tenay, of course, was a nickname for Christena based on the last two syllables of her name.

When I examined these tombstones after they had been cleaned and set in the 1980 marker, I discovered another error in the 1980 marker. The date of death for Christena (Christianna on her tombstone) was 19 Mar. 1855 rather than 14 May 1855 as the 1980 marker states.

If it seems appropriate, I hope you will be able to note these corrections in connection with the publishing of the McVaney Cem. reading.

I shall send Hartzel a copy of this explanation. I am grateful to him for reading McVaney Cem. and so many others.

Attached is a sketch of what remains of the old stones and the 1980 marker at McVaney Cem.

Sincerely,

Doris

A letter dated 15 Aug 1984 from J. Glenn Warner included this marriage bond for John Waggoner and Susannah Richards. Glenn apologized for the error in the "Waggoners of Hacker's Creek" which stated that Susanna was the ward of John Runyon. According to the bond above, she was the ward of Elijah Runyon.

GENERATION:

4th 1 +i HUGH HUGHES (20)⁹, the first-mentioned, but probably not the eldest child of William Hughes, was born in Virginia, and died in Hampshire County, Virginia in 1763. His wife's name was Susannah (Susan). About 1750, Hugh Hughes took his family and went with his father and others, north-westward toward the Fairfax land of Frederick County. There, he acquired a tract of 480 acres on the Great Cacapon River, adjoining that of his brother, Thomas, in what is now Hampshire County, West Virginia. Hampshire County records show that "Susannah Hughes (widow) and William Hughes, eldest son of Hugh Hughes of Hampshire County, sold 33 acres on Cape Capon Creek, to Benjamin Fry on May 10, 1763."

Hugh Hughes made a will on January 9, 1762, which was probated May 10, 1763. He named his wife, Susannah, and five sons.¹⁰

Susannah (Susan) Hughes (widow) made a will on March 8, 1784, which was probated April 11, 1791, wherein she not only named her sons, but also her two daughters, a grand-daughter, Hannah, and a Mary Frazier, probably not related.

Seven children of Hugh and Susannah Hughes are listed as named in the wills:

- i William, mentioned as the eldest son;
- 3 + ii James, m. Mary —. (Continued: p. 30);
- iv Evan, mentioned with his brother, Jonathan, in his father's will as to be put out to learn a trade. Executor of his mother's will.

¹⁰ Will of Hugh Hughes (excerpts): "In the name of God amen. This ninth day of January A.D. 1762 I Hugh Hughes of the County of Hampshire and Colony of Virginia . . . bequeath unto my loving wife Susanah Hughes one full third part of all my estate feal and personal the continuance of her life time—and at her decease to be divided as follows. Item I give and bequeath unto my son William Hughes and to his heirs forever two hundred acres of land out of the home plantation with all the improvements thereon and movabells. Item I give and bequeath two hundred acres of land out of the home plantation to my son James Hughes . . . Item I give and bequeath unto my son Hugh Hughes forty acres of land out of the old plantation with a grist mill thereon and a survey on the mill run above the said mill containing two hundred acres or thereabouts to him and his heirs forever. Item I require my executors to put my two sons Evan and Jonathan Hughes each six years to such trade as they shall choose or approve. Item I appoint and ordain my son William Hughes and Joseph Powell to be my executors of this my last will and testament . . . "

GENERATION:

5th 4 + v JONATHAN HUGHES (10) was born March 25, 1753, in Hampshire County, Virginia, and died September 1849 near Salem, Harrison County Virginia. He is buried in the Eddy Cemetery near Miletus, Doddridge County, West Virginia.¹² About 1771 he married (1) Vercetta —, by whom he had one child, Mary, born March 5, 1773, who married Jacob Trumba.¹³ In 1785 he married (2) Sarah Abigail Jackson in Wilkes County, North Carolina. She was born 1765 in New Jersey, the daughter of Edward and Martha (Miller) Jackson, who settled in Harrison County after his service in the Revolutionary War. (Jackson family, page 34). Sarah died July 1, 1842, in Harrison County and is buried in the Seventh Day Baptist Cemetery near Salem.

Jonathan Hughes was a remarkable man—above the average in intelligence and learning for one of his time and place. What "trade" he was put out to learn, we do not know, but he chose to be a school-master and is known to have taught school in six states. He was teaching school in Gallia County, Ohio in his 90th year. He lived to be 95 years old.

Jonathan was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. His service records are more complete than any other of the Hughes family—and there were about 75 from Virginia alone. He made two declarations for a pension; first in September 1833, from Jefferson County, Indiana, which for some reason was not accepted, and a second one on March 19, 1834, from Gallia County, Ohio. It was a more detailed account of his service and movements from the year 1775.

¹² Last payment of pension was made Sept. 9, 1849, to I.F.Updegraff, his attorney, through the Wheeling agency.

¹³ This data of first marriage to Vercetta was added to the application paper by NSDAR, No. 468189 (G.S.H.), Oct. 16, 1959.

These declarations, written in a beautiful, clear handwriting; his commission as Ensign, signed by Thomas Jefferson, Governor of Virginia, dated November 9, 1779; his oath of allegiance of July 2, 1775; and a certificate of service in Captain Cook's Company, dated October 20, 1780, are in the Archives of the War Department in Washington. Photo-copies of these "precious bits of paper" were made for Boyd B. Stutler in 1925 and are in his files, now in possession of the writer.

Extracts from the second pension declaration of Jonathan Hughes, Virginia Regiment, Number S9591:

He enlisted June 1774 in Greenbriar County, Virginia as a Minuteman, under Captain John Cook and Lieutenant William Gilliland, and was sent to Ellis Fort at "Little Levels" to protect the frontier against Indians. He continued there until the spring of 1777 when he was attached to Captain Hamilton's Company, stationed at Major Renrix's Fort for three months.

In the spring of 1778 he went to Hampshire, Virginia, the place where he was born. In October of 1779 he joined Captain George Bell's Company of Colonel Posten's Regiment and was promoted to Ensign; was out after Tories for more than a month. In 1780 was on a tour under same officers for the same service, as an Ensign, and had such service until the end of the war.

On October 1780 he was called out against the British on the Atlantic coast, but was excused for some reason. His discharge was submitted as evidence.

After the war, in 1781, he removed from Hampshire County and his movements were: Wilkes County, North Carolina, 1783; South Carolina, 1790; Georgia, 1791; returned to Greenbriar County, Virginia, in January 1792; and to Harrison County in 1808. On January 28, 1829, he went to Gallia County, Ohio, where he made his home most of the time. In 1833 he spent four months in Jefferson County, Indiana, teaching school. There he became acquainted with "Colonel William Hendrick, now a member of Congress, who will present these papers."

On July 7, 1835, Hughes made an application in Harrison County, Virginia, for a transfer of pension from the Ohio Roll to Virginia, as he had "returned to Harrison County where my children live."¹⁴

This true account of the wanderings of the restless Jonathan Hughes, through trackless and untraveled areas, becomes more amazing when we know that his wife, Sarah Abigail Jackson, bore him thirteen children between 1787 and 1810. They surely trailed along with him--a saga of the remarkable stuff of the pioneer!

In a letter written to Boyd Stutler January 12, 1926, from William L. Hughes, Jane Lew, West Virginia, we find the only glimmer of Jonathan, from his birth until 1774, when he was 21 years old. The letter reads, " . . . I will relate a bit of tradition as I remember hearing my grandfather (Stephen J. Hughes) and my father (Houston J. Hughes) talking when I was quite young, and as I have heard from others more recently. Jonathan Hughes took to himself a wife when he was quite young. The name of the wife and place I cannot recall, but I have the impression they lived in the Monongalia Valley. There was one daughter born to this union.

" A difficulty arose between Jonathan and his wife's brother, the name I don't recall. They had a fight in an approach to where Jonathan went to catch his horse. He had a bridle in his hand with a heavy bit attached as they had in those days, and he struck his brother-in-law on the side of the temple and floored him, and left him for dead.

"It is said that he never went back home feeling the remorse of his act so keenly that he would not face his young wife. This unfortunate affair doubtless caused him to secrete himself . . . during his early life.

"He married Abigail in one of the Carolinas and one of these marriages was a case of elopement. I can readily see why he was so restless and evasive with his children about his young life. . . . I have every reason to believe this is true and seems plausible to me."

Jonathan Hughes was the father of fourteen children. He and his first wife, Vercetta, had one child:

IS IT POSSIBLE?

In the History of Athens County, Ohio is this biography.

Eliphaz Perkins, son of John Perkins, a leading citizen of Norwich, Connecticut, was born at that place, August 25, 1753. Deprived of his father at an early age, he was nevertheless enabled, through the exertions of his mother, to obtain a liberal education. Soon after leaving college, Mr. Perkins married Lydia Fitch, daughter of Dr. Jabez Fitch. Eliphaz soon entered the study of medicine with his father-in-law, and this was his vocation the rest of his life. Times were bad and by now, they had seven children. Dr. Perkins decided to move west in the spring of 1789. Leaving his family in Connecticut, he started for Marietta. On his arrival he found a number of persons from Clarksburg, Virginia, engaged in laying a road between there and Marietta. They begged him to practice in Clarksburg, so he returned with them and practiced medicine there for two years. The Indian war began about this time, and Dr. Perkins witnessed some terrible scenes of border warfare. In one instance the savages killed and scalped a family near where the Doctor was passing that night. One member of the family, a girl about fourteen years old, was scalped and left for dead in the fence corner. Dr. Perkins found her the next morning, still alive, took her under his care, and with good treatment and a good constitution, she was finally restored to health.

In the autumn of 1790, Dr. Perkins returned to Connecticut and rejoined his family. They hadn't heard from each other in nearly two years. The next few years he practiced in Connecticut and Vermont. He finally decided to move his family to the Northwest Territory and he set out for Marietta on June 3, 1799. He had seven children, the oldest of which was a girl of fifteen years, who kept a journal of their trip to Marietta. A vivid description of their trip which took 5 months followed in which her mother gave birth to twin girls and everyone was sick from bad water and exposure. The mother was seized with a nervous fever, was doctored by her husband and other physicians to no avail. After a few days of painful sickness, her toils and trials were ended by death. In the spring of 1800 Dr. Perkins was invited by neighbors to settle at Athens where he procured a house to live in. It was a log cabin, the best he could afford. It had one room, one window, and one door and a shed for a horse and a cow and plenty good water. In order to move into their new home they first had to have their goods moved from Marietta. To do so, a small boat was hired to go down the Ohio and up the Hockhocking River. A wagon with a team of horses met the boat to move the goods inland. The driver was one Peter Mansfield who moved them to their new home. The first settlers were poor and Dr. Perkins found it easier to earn money than to collect it. Dr. Perkins remarried in 1803 a Catherine Greene, who died in 1807. She was the first to be buried in the old graveyard north of town.

Is it possible that the girl Dr. Perkins treated was our Margaret Hacker?

Is it possible that the wagon driver, Peter Mansfield, was my mother's great-great uncle? He was in Athens County then.

Is it possible that mother's grandmother, Ellen Perkins, had an uncle named Dr. Eliphaz Perkins. They were both born in Connecticut?

Is it possible?'

TRIVIA

What "Christmas" river was named by what early settler in Lewis County?

Vol 24 - 1901 in a letter to Edward Allman, Joy Gilchrist states that on the same ship "Richmond" that brought Peterman Hardman to America Oct. 20, 1764 was also a JOHN ALLMAN and HENRICH ALLMAN. A copy of this article is in our MIGRATIONS, MASSACHES & SUCH (The Peter Hardman Family) by Joy Gilchrist

PETERMAN

According to a third or fourth generation (copy of what appears to be the family Bible of Peter Hardman (1776-1859), "Peter" Hardman, son of Nicholas and Margaret Hardman was born March the 10th 1745 in Juliers near the River Rhine in Germany" Peter (Hardtman) was 19½ years old when he arrived in "Amarica" at the Port of Philadelphia on the ship "Richmond" 20 Oct 1764. The ship was captained by Charles Young Husband and had sailed from Rotterdam with 224 passengers quite a few of whom were women and children.

A story from the papers of Paul Hardman in the State Archives, Charleston, W. Va., which supposedly passed down through the Peter Hardman descendants says that Peterman Hardman had sailed with several of his brothers and sisters from Rotterdam, Germany. The ship was so overcrowded that they were obliged to put in at an English port and await the arrival of another ship. Among those who awaited the second ship were Peterman Hardman and some of his relatives.

Tradition says that Peterman sold himself as an indentured servant to a man from New Jersey for whom he worked for 5/7 months to pay his $35 passage. After his period of servitude was over, Peterman and some of his brothers and sisters migrated to a German settlement at Moorefield, in what was then Hampshire County, Virginia. Peterman settled at the Indian Oldfields, now called Oldfields, Hardy County, W. Va.

Peterman began to cast about for a tract of land upon which to settle. He selected a piece on Mike's Branch of Patterson Creek now located in Mineral County, then a part of Hardy County. He evidently made a tomahawk entry and then proceeded to seek a grant of the land from the Fairfax agents. Peterman did not receive the grant until 1781 after he had moved to the Youghigany River area. The grant, made at the Fairfax Courthouse, Virginia, was for 216 acres of very fertile acres hidden by a rim of mountains, the entry to which was by one single narrow gorge, so narrow it would scarcely permit the necessary trail.

Peterman married Charlotte Lazier/Lasier sometime before 1774. The exact date or the place of the marriage is undiscovered. Charlotte was about three years younger than Peter. Peterman took his bride to his beautiful valley where he cleared some land and erected a cabin near a bubbling spring. In this cabin their first two children were born: Elizabeth on 8 Oct 1774 and Peter on 23 July 1776, just 19 days after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Descendants of Elizabeth and Peter share the birthplace of an ancestor with one of our most famous Americans - Abraham Lincoln. It happened thus:

Peterman began to feel unsafe with his young family on the South Branch because of the rising Indian troubles that preceeded the Revolution. Prior to 7 Oct 1777 when his son John was born, he had moved his family to the Youghigany River area, some say in Maryland and others say in Pennsylvania. When he left the South Branch, he leased his land to Joseph Hanks and George Terry. Hanks took up residency in the Hardman cabin while Terry possessed the other end of the claim. Although some historians deny it, the State of West Virginia claims that Nancy Hanks, mother of the immortal Lincoln, was born in the Hardman cabin to Joseph and his wife Lucy in 1783.

Joseph Hanks remained on the South Branch property to which he had received title bond until at least 9 Mar 1784 when he gave a deed of trust to Peter Putman on 108 acres of land on Patterson Creek to acquire the money to move to faraway Kentucky. Peter Hardman, upon his return to the South Branch, learned that Hanks had sold the property. He and Peter Putman then sold the property to Jacob Doll and Jacob Purgale; from the sale money, Peter Putman was paid the sum due for the mortgage. The property has remained in the Doll family to this day.

ALVA DOLL LIVES AT 318 MILFORD ST., CLARKSBURG, W. VA. IN 1984. ALVA IS A DIRECT DECENDANT of JACOB DOLL.

Four more children were born to Peter and Charlotte while in the Youghigany area: Jacob, b. ca 1778; Henry, b. 1 May 1781; Catherine, b 26 Feb 1784; and Daniel, b. 6 Nov 1787.

About 1791 Peterman moved his family to Jesse's Run, a tributary of Hacker's Creek, where he had purchased land from Jesse Hughes. A survey of the land appears on page 40.

It may have been destiny that brought Peter and Charlotte and their children to Jesse's Run for the events which would happen in the community around them would deeply effect the lives of their children and would assure that the Hardman name would be recorded in the annals of early frontier history.

On 5 Dec 1787 a party of Indians, probably Shawnees, and the white renegade Leonard Schoolcraft, came into the Hacker's Creek community, captured Martha Hughes, slaughtered Edmund West Sr. as he begged for mercy, murdered Mary Ann (Hacker) West and 12 year old Edward West, and tomahawked and knifed 11 year old Margaret Hacker. Peter Hardman, eldest son of Peter and Charlotte, would later marry Margaret.

Five years later, on 6 May 1792, Tecumseh and two of his braves invaded the area, shot at John Waggoner, and captured Margaret (Bonnett) Waggoner and seven children. They slew one little boy in the front yard of the Waggoner cabin. Within a mile of the cabin they killed Mrs. Waggoner and three other boys. They¹⁰ carried the other three children - Mary, Elizabeth and Peter - off to captivity.

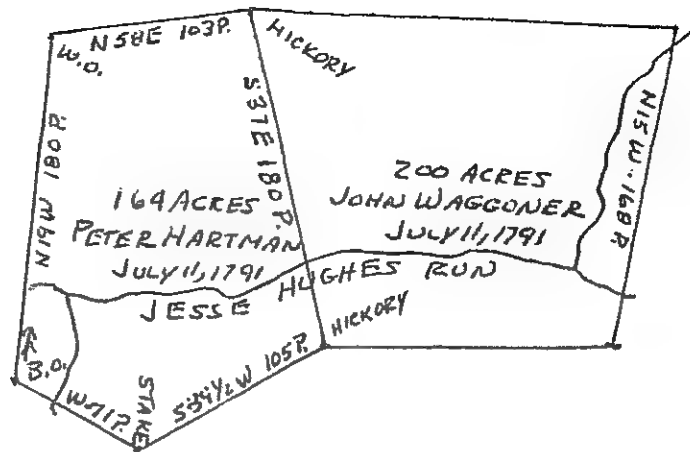

"In the meantime, Waggoner, who had escaped to Hardman's, a neighbor living about half a mile away, spread the alarm. Hardman lived about one and one-half¹¹ miles from Jesse Hughes, the fleet-footed, who ran to the fort with the news." The neighbor was Peterman Hardman. His cabin was on a flat spot on the upper side of present Jesse's Run Road, near Jane Lew, just up the creek from where the Godfreys presently (1984) live.

Peter Hardman, the father, must have been a man of strong constitution with fairly good health most of his life because in 1812, at the age of 67, he accompanied John Waggoner to Paint Creek, a tributary of the Scioto River, in search of Peter Waggoner, John's captive son. Peter Waggoner had been seen there by a former neighbor of the Waggoner's who had taken up land in the Scioto area. Today, with modern transportation, this would have been a journey of about 6 hours. In those times, it probably took several days, even weeks, and would have been dependent upon the route they chose to travel.

They may have gone overland following the Great Trail to the Ohio, down the Ohio the mouth of the Scioto and up that river to Paint Creek they may have chosen to go the whole distance overland; or they may have gone by canoe down the West Fork River to the Monongahela, down that river to it's confluence at Fort Pitt, then down the Ohio to the Scioto, and up the Scioto to Paint Creek. The mouth of Paint Creek is located in what is now Scioto Township of Ross County just east of State Route 23. Its headwaters are in Fayette County, Ohio; it flows down through a corner of Highland County into Ross County and across that county to its mouth just south of present day Chillicothe.¹² Chillicothe was the site of the old Indian towns and the Indians were in possession of the area until after the War of 1812.

Peter Hardman's mission would have a lasting effect upon his daughter Catherine. Peter and John found Peter Waggoner who was married to an Indian squaw and the father of two daughters. They convinced Peter to leave his Indian family and return to the Hacker's Creek settlement. Two years later, in 1814, Peter was married to Catherine (Hardman) Hyde.

No written records have been found that give the names of those who attended the religious services held in the various homes of the settlement or those held at Wests (Beech) Fort, but it is probable that Peter and Charlotte Hardman attended a Methodist society somewhere in the area. It is certain that they instilled a belief in the Supreme Being in their children. Two of their sons, Peter and John,

Peter had acquired considerable real and personal property in the 63 years since he had come to America. It is interesting and worthwhile to study the inventory of his estate which appears on page 43 .

Peter was buried in the Old Harmony Cemetery. When Charlotte died eight years later on 13 May 1827, she was laid beside him. 14

Children of Peter and Charlotte (Lazier/Lasier) Hardman

Like all the other families in the early settlements, the children of Peter and Charlotte, except their youngest son Daniel, married the children of other early settlers.

1. Elizabeth Hardman, b. ¹⁵8 Oct 1774, probably on the South Branch; m. 7 May 1792 in Harrison County, Va., to Caleb Smith, son of David and Lydia (Ball) Smith. It might be worthwhile to note that Elizabeth's wedding day was also the day of the Waggoner tragedy in which her family figured so prominently. Perhaps the family was in the midst of celebrating her marriage when John Waggoner burst upon the scene with his story of the Indian attack.

Very little is known about Caleb and Elizabeth (Hardman) Smith. They moved to Warren County, Ohio, about 1807 along with Francis and Elizabeth (Flesher) Liggett and John Sleeth III. It was customary for families to migrate west in family groups or with neighbors. Such was the case in this migration.

John Sleeth was a nephew of Elizabeth (Flesher) Liggett; Elizabeth's sister Ann/Nancy Flesher's first husband was John Sleeth, Jr., the son of John Alexander and Mary Ann (Wallace) Sleeth. In an earlier Journal article (Vol. I, p. 67) two children of John Jr. and Ann Sleeth were identified. Recent correspondence from a Liggett descendant, Walter Farwell of Tipton, Iowa, has identified this third child.

While there is no known direct connection between Caleb and Elizabeth and the Sleeths and Liggetts, Caleb's brothers, Alexander and David, and sister Susannah had each married first cousins of John Sleeth. In addition, the Liggetts owned land adjacent to the Hardman family on Jesse's Run.

Caleb Smith d. 13 Aug 1851 in Warren County, Ohio; Elizabeth d. there 6 Jan 1861.

2. Peter Hardman, b. 23 Jul 1776¹⁶ in Hardy County, Virginia¹⁷; d. 30 July 1818 in Greene County, Ohio¹⁸; m. (1) Margaret Hacker who was b. 27 Dec 1776¹⁹ at Bushes Fort (now Buckhannon, Upshur County, W. Va.) on 1 Dec 1797 in Harrison County, Virginia²⁰; and (2) ^{Margaret} Sarah Adams Edge 26 Oct 1815 in Greene County, Ohio.²¹

Peter grew up on Jesse's Run. Apprenticed as a blacksmith in his early years, he developed a love of iron and steel; he later became a gunsmith. In 1797 he married Margaret Hacker, the daughter of John and Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker. As earlier stated, Margaret had been scalped by Leonard Schoolcraft, the white renegade, and his Indian friends in 1787. Margaret usually wore a kerchief over her head to cover the few tufts of hair left by the Indians.

In 1804, Peter "became a subject of divine grace. . . with so much zeal that in the course of another year he was licensed as a local Methodist minister." He was a great preacher and exhorter and "whenever in private dwelling or in school house, he could get an audience on the Sabbath or week-day evenings, there he delighted in preaching the Gospel of Christ."²²

In 1803 Ohio became a state and in 1807 Bath Township was formed in Greene County, near Kenton's Trail, Bullskin Trace, the Scioto Trail and the Winchester Trace.²³ There is some confusion as to the exact year that Peter chose to explore the newly opened lands in Ohio and make a settlement there. One source gives the date as 1803 while another says that it was two years prior to 1808 when he brought his family to Bath Township.

The government was selling lands for $1.25 an acre and it was required that the buyer make some type of improvement to legalize his claim. Peter purchased acreage on the east side of what is known as Tatman's Plain. To "prove" his claim, he borrowed an ax, cut down a small tree, split it into rails, and staked them over a stump. This was sufficient improvement to protect his property.²⁴

Peter returned to Hacker's Creek for two years to ply his trade and to save enough money to take his family to their new home.

In 1808 Peter packed a large covered wagon which was drawn by four horses²⁵ and, with Margaret and their young family of 7/8 children, set out for Ohio. According to a descendant of Peter's and Margaret's eighth child Eliza, she was born in Greene County on 21 Feb 1808. If this was the case, Peter and Margaret would have made the trip in some of the coldest months of the year. It appears more likely that Eliza was a babe in arms when the family set out for Ohio.

The family arrived in Greene County with only $1.25 left after paying expenses.²⁶ Peter worked hard and soon had the family on an even keel. He erected the family cabin on the east side of the present city of Fairborn on what is now the site of the Universal Atlas Cement Company.²⁷

Margaret's time after coming to Ohio must have been a busy one. Besides helping establish their home and caring for her family, she gave birth to two more children. She died at her home on the Tatman Plain on 30 July 1815, according to several sources, the result of a hemorrhage brought on by the scalping some 28 years previous. All ten of her children survived her; the youngest, Nelson, was 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ years of age.

Mitman Cemetery may already have been established when Margaret was buried there. The cemetery survey (p. 25 this issue) indicates that infant Joseph Longstreet may have died at his birth on 5 July 1815 and been buried there just 25 days prior to Margaret's death.

Peter had Margaret's headstone cut of marble and inscribed with the following: "Margaret, wife of Peter Hardman, died July 20, 1815, aged 38 years, 6 months, and 28 days. Sleep blest just beneath the ground, till the last loud trump(et) sound." Today the stone is broken and lying upon the ground.

Peter's heart must have been heavy and his concern great as he carried Margaret up that hill; however, religious man that he was, he would have placed his trust in his Saviour. His trust would not have been misplaced.

Three months later, on 26 October 1815, he married Sarah (Adams) Edge, the widow of George Davis Edge, and the mother of two children.²⁸ Sarah Adams was b. 18 Aug 1786 near Greeneville, Tennessee. She had married George David Edge on 22 Feb 1803 in Sullivan County, Tennessee. George, the son of Obediah Edge I, was born someplace in Virginia but had been in Eastern Tennessee for quite a number of years. Sometime before 1806 George and Sarah had moved to a homestead in Miami Township, Greene County; they are found on the tax lists there when the first lists of residents were made. A son, Jesse, was born to them in Greene County on 7 March 1811.²⁹

With the beginning of the War of 1812, George enlisted to fight the second war for independence. With another baby on the way and crops to be planted, he was permitted to remain at home until these things were done. The baby, George Davis Edge, was born 13 May 1813, and George went off to war. A few months later George was sent home to die (of wounds/illness??). He died at his home near Clifton on 27 Sept 1813; he is buried along the banks of the Little Miami River near that town.³⁰

Sarah remained on the family farm and applied for a government pension for herself and her two tiny sons. Twenty-five months later she met and married Peter Hardman. She kept the farm in trust for her sons until they were of age and moved to the Hardman home.

Peter and Sarah Hardman had twelve children between them. Seven more were born of their marriage for a total of nineteen children.

In 1852 Peter, who was by then 76 years of age, and Sarah moved from the family farm into the city of Osborn. Osborn would later be combined with the town of Fairfield and become Fairborn. Peter died in Osborn 30 July 1859 and was buried at Mitman Cemetery. Sarah lived another 16 years and died 29 Nov 1875. She was laid to rest along with Peter and Margaret.

Today Mitman Cemetery overlooks the beautiful valley near where Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the Air Force Museum are located. In the distance can be heard the scream of the jet engines and the sky is streaked with the vapor trails of the planes. It seems poignant somehow that these bodies, now beneath the soil, which felt the blade of the Indian tomahawk and heard the savage warrior's cry are now witnessing, in their own way, things that could not even have been imagined in their day.

Space does not permit naming all the progeny of Peter and his two wives down to the present day - nor do we know them all. However, we will attempt to at least give names and dates where known for one or two generations.

Children of Peter and Margaret (Hacker) Hardman

1. Sarah Hardman, one of a set of twin girls, b. 16 Sept 1798, in Harrison County, Va.; m. David Ellsworth 17 Apr 1817 in Greene County, Ohio. No further information. (Could David have been a descendant of the Hacker's Creek Ellsworth families?)

2. Catherine Hardman, twin to Sarah; m. Manly Richards 20 Dec 1821 in Greene County, Ohio. No further information available. (Richards is also a Hacker's Creek name.)

3. John Hardman, b. 20 Jan 1800; m. Amelia Sleeth. In Shelby County, Ind., in 1836. (Whose daughter was Amelia?)

4. Henry Hardman, b. 10 May 1801 in Harrison County, Va.; d. 14 Nov 1879 in Cedar County, Iowa; m. (1) Mary Searles 27 Nov 1821 in Greene County, Ohio, and (2) Mary (Edwards) Pinkey/Perkey.

Mary Searles, d/o Timothy and Sarah (Miller) Searles, was b. 18 Feb 1803 in Steuben County, New York. She was a descendant of Gov. John Winthrop, Puritan governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and of William Bradford, the second governor of Plymouth Colony. Mary d. 15 Sept 1872 in Cedar County, Iowa, and is buried in the South Bethel Cemetery there.

Sometime between their marriage in 1821 and the birth of their first child in 1823, Henry and Mary moved to Clark County, Ohio, where other Hardman family members resided. They remained in Clark County until the mid-1830's when they migrated west to Cedar County, Iowa.

Six children were born to Henry and Mary (Searles) Hardman:

a. Cynthia Hardman, b. 17 May 1823 in Clark County, Ohio; d. 24 Apr 1867. Never married.

b. Cordis Hardman, b. 29 Apr 1825 in Clark County, Ohio; d. 25 Jan 1876 in Cedar County, Iowa; m. Sarah Ann Wise 10 Apr 1845 in Cedar County. Three of their descendants - Eleanor Womer, Elizabeth (Womer) Taylor and Mary Alice (Hardman) Egin - have contributed a lot of the information in this article.

c. Cain Hardman, b. 22 Nov 1826 in Clark Co., Ohio; d. 1890 in Oketo, Kansas; m. 11 Nov 1858 to Mary Dale/Dole.

d. Sarah Hardman, b. 22 Oct 1832 in Clark Co., Ohio; m. 16 May 1850 William Crippen.

e. Silas Hardman, b. 27 Mar 1839; m. Amanda Fulwider. Silas was living with his parents on the 1850 and 1860 census.

f. Samantha Hardman, b. 31 Mar 1844 in Cedar Co., Iowa; m. _____ Graham about 1866; d. 27 Mar 1888.

Henry, like his father, was a gunsmith; he followed in his father's footsteps too, as far as religion was concerned. He was a Methodist Episcopal minister. After Mary's death in 1872, Henry remarried to a widow named Mary (Edwards) Pinky/Perkey. The second wife was the mother of two children by her first marriage. These children were William and Sarah Jane.

Henry died in 1879 and was buried in the South Bethel Cemetery in Cedar County, Iowa. His second wife lived until 1898.

THE BROWN FAMILY

From "Yesteryears, by Bill Adler, referring to The Mongue Fort on Broad Run: Printed in the Weston "Independent" in its issue of November 18, 1913. Its title was "Broad Run and its Pioneers", and was provided to the "Independent" by Alexander Brown, a descendant of early settlers in the Lightburn vicinity. The information was taken from a booklet written by Roy G. Brown, a son of Squire Waldo Brown of Harrison County. Waldo and Alexander were first cousins, both being grandsons of James Brown, Waldo being a son of Samuel Brown, while Alexander is the son of Thomas Brown. Roy wrote:

'My great-grandfather, James Brown, with his wife, whose maiden name was Sarah Sheppard, came from the east (Fauquier County, Va.), and settled on White Oak Flat Run, in what was then Monongalia County, Va. The little creek on which they built their log cabin is a branch of the West Fork of the Monongahela; and is now called Broad Run and is in Lewis County, West Virginia.

Information sent to me by the late Winnifred Brown Scott, with Items I and II, from notes of Waldo Brown, grandson of James and Sarah Shepherd Brown.

- I George Brown - from England to Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Born Leicherstershire, England in 1643. In 1679 he received a patent for land in Bucks County, Pa., from the agent of the Duke of York - Sir Edmond Andre.
- II J. Elias Brown, born about 1681 in Bucks County.
- III John J. Brown, Sr., born 17 --. Settled in Cumberland Co., Pa. Came from Pa. to Hampshire County, Va. (Now Hardy Co.) near Moorefield sometime after 1756, as his son, James, was born in 1756 in Cumberland County, Pa. John Brown, Sr., died in Lewis County 1807 or early 1808. He came to Harrison County, Va., now Lewis County about 1782 or 1783, settled on White Oak Flats Run, where he built Fort Mongue, usually called Ft. Mong or Brown's Fort. In 1804, he gave a few acres of land to the Baptist, where the Broad Run Baptist Church was built. White Oak Flats Run has been called Broad Run since that time. John Brown's wife was Eleanor _____. She was listed in the 1810 Harrison County Census as living alone.

How did organization of
THE HACKER'S CREEK PIONEER
DESCENDANTS originate?

Conceived by two former strangers, both living in Canton, Ohio, and both having ancestors from Lewis Co. and the Hacker's Creek area of West Virginia, the idea was carried back to the "nativity scene." The first Gathering, held in October, 1982, found many local descendants supportive of the formation of this organization, as well as many who lived in all parts of the United States.

This barn was built using the logs from the original John Hacker cabin, (photograph, 1983)

explanation of cover--

The line at top coming from East, or right, goes to West--bringing in people to West Virginia.

The mountains super-imposed on the outline of the State shows the roughness, or hardships, of their travel. As they usually would move on at the "crack of dawn," the sun is shining on the east side of the mountains and shadows are falling on the west side.

Arrows pointing to specific spots have arrowheads for points to represent the problems early settlers faced.

The road sign is self-explanatory. Various types of printing represent different families, names, etc.

The line extending off the page to the left, or West, represents those who migrated farther west.
